

affinity chromatography

An expression characterizing the particular variant of chromatography in which the unique biological specificity of the analyte and ligand interaction is utilized for the separation.

1993, 65, 826; see also 1992, 64, 145