

angular momentum,  $L$

Angular momentum, or moment of momentum of a particle about a point is a vector quantity equal to the vector product of the position vector of the particle and its momentum,  $L = \mathbf{r} \times \mathbf{p}$ . For special angular momenta of particles in atomic and molecular physics different symbols are used.

G.B. 12