

continuous precipitation

A diffusional reaction in a multi-component system in which atoms are transported to the growing nuclei by diffusion over relatively large distances in the parent phase and during which the mean composition of the parent phase changes continuously towards its equilibrium value.

Synonymous with nucleation and growth.

1994, 66, 580