

cross-flow filtration (in biotechnology)

Method of operating a filtration device where retained fluid is circulated over the membrane (filter) surface thus preventing undue build-up of filtered material on membrane (filter).

1992, 64, 151