

heat of formation

The heat absorbed or released upon formation of a compound from the elements in their standard states (i.e., the most stable form of the elements under standard temperature and pressure, 25°C and 1 atm).

1999, 71, 1942