

inhomogeneity error (in spectrochemical analysis)

An error due to inhomogenous distribution of absorbing species in the analytical sample. It may be observed by probing the sample volume with an incident beam of radiation of reduced cross-section.

1988, 60, 1456