

mass spectrometer

An instrument in which beams of ions are separated (analysed) according to the quotient mass/charge, and in which the ions are measured electrically. This term should also be used when a scintillation detector is employed.

1991, 63, 1545; O.B. 201; see also 1990, 62, 2200