

+ optically labile

A term describing a system in which stereoisomerization results in a change of optical rotation with time. (Usage strongly discouraged).

1996, 68, 2212