

releaser (in analytical flame spectroscopy)

A substance which reduces solute-volatilization interferences by forming a compound preferentially with the interferent, thus preventing the reaction of the analyte or interferent from entering a thermally stable compound.

O.B. 172