

series (of analytical results)

A number of measured values ($x_1, x_2, \dots x_i, \dots x_n$) equivalent to each other with respect to statistical considerations, e.g. the results of repeated analyses using only one analytical method on a substance that is presumed to be homogeneous.

1994, 66, 597; O.B. 4