

sticking probability (in surface chemistry)

Often used with the same meaning as sticking coefficient, but in principle it is a microscopic quantity concerned with the individual collision process.

1976, 46, 78