

structure-property correlations (SPC)

Structure-property correlations (SPC) refer to all statistical mathematical methods used to correlate any molecular property (intrinsic, chemical or biological) to any other property, using statistical regression or pattern recognition techniques.

1997, 69, 1150