

transition interval (in titrimetric analysis)

The range of concentration over which the eye is able to perceive change in hue, colour intensity, fluorescence or other property of a visual indicator arising from the varying ratio of the two relevant forms of the indicator.

O.B. 48