The International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry (IUPAC), formed in 1919, is a voluntary non-governmental, nonprofit association of organizations, each of which represents the chemists of a member country. Its objectives are as follows:

- to promote continuing cooperation among the chemists of the member countries
- to study topics of international importance to pure and applied chemistry which need standardization or codification
- to cooperate with other international organizations that deal with topics of a chemical nature
- to contribute to the advancement and understanding of pure and applied chemistry in all its aspects

The membership of IUPAC currently comprises 43 national organizations, such as an academy of science or research council.
